SONG. BY JOHN BENRY BONER. O, I ask not the love of a heart that is burning

With all the wild passions of youthful unrest—
That, like the gay butterfly, ever is turning
From flower to flower, and never is blest.
I ask not the love of a heart from whose bowers
No bright bird of pleasure has ever yet flown.
The life that is joyful with songs and with flowers
Would wither and die if 'twere linked with my

No, give me the earnest, the faithful affection Which dwells in the boson that sorrow has pained-A soul that can see by its own introspection

How bitter the chalice that my lips have drained. As the moon when surrounded by surging cloudbilliows Doth shed a more tender and soul-soothing

beam
The tide of affection is sweeter when willows
Of hallowing sorrow bend over the stream.

DR. BRENNAN'S CURE FOR INSANITY.—A few days ago Peter Oliver, a handsome young Irishman, of 24 years, was taken to the Bellevue hospital a raving mantac. He was thrust into one of the cells in the lower part of the building, and with great difficulty pinioned to his bed. He yelled and struggled at such a rate that he was ordered to be put into a straight jacket. On Thursday morning, while the physicians were trying to devise some proper treatment, Warden Brennan sent for the young man's sweetheart, and in an hour's time a pretty, blue-eyed Irish girl, blushing and laughing, came to the warden and said she guessed she was "the only sweetheart Peter had." Slipping into the cell of the madman, she went to his bedside, put her arm around his neck and kissed him. He ceased to struggle and became quiet. She smoothed his forehead, gently stroked his face, and fed him as though he was a child. The hearty warden watched with delight the progress of his remedy, which he called homeopathic. At 6 o'clock, when the rosy little physician kissed her patient good-bye, he was as sane as he ever was. The warden now warrants a cure in every case of insanity whore the rest DR.
